

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to methods for the scalable preparation of adenoviral preparations comprising the use of continuous-flow ultracentrifugation. The present invention further relates to the preparation of gradients for use in continuous-flow ultracentrifugation methods.